STUDENT OBLIGATIONS AND EXAMS

Conditions for attaining the status of the course “completed” for the student

A student should attend at least 30% of all the lectures and 30% of all the exercises, and create the Powerpoint presentation on a topic and present it to his/her colleagues during the class.

Written exam:

There are two ways of passing the exam:

- a) Written quizzes – consists of writing two written tests during the semester. The first quiz can be attended by all students enrolled in the course in the current academic year. The second quiz at the end of the semester can be attended by the students who have acquired a positive grade from quiz 1.
- b) Written test – consists of a final written exam during regular examination periods. The written exam can be attended by students who are eligible for signature.

Oral exam: To attend the oral part of exam, the student has to pass two written quizzes or the final written exam.

LITERATURE

a) Obligatory literature:

1. A.Smodlaka: Classroom material – English in air traffic 1, 2019/2020
2. R.Murphy: English Grammar in Use, Intermediate, Cambridge University Press, 1998.
3. The Airline Handbook, Air Transport Association of America (ATA), 2007.
4. Additional materials that the teacher brings to the classroom or sends them to the students by e-mail
5. Various audio and videos material

b) Recommended literature:

1. McCarthy, M. & F. O'Dell: Academic Vocabulary in Use, CUP, 2008.
2. A. Kukovec: FLYING, Aviation English, Ljubljana, 2001.

METHODOLOGY OF THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE COURSE PLAN

1. LECTURES

Lectures follow material given on Merlin. Grammar topics rely on the book English Grammar in Use. Grammar and syntax are being explained during lectures, especially topics relevant to non-native speakers of English. Various language functions are being explained during the lectures (questions, imperatives, obligations) which are especially important for English in Air Traffic as a language for specific purposes. English in Air Traffic terminology is presented.

2. AUDITORIAL EXERCISES

The primary function of the auditory exercises is to practice speaking skills (actively and passively). Audio materials are being used. Main language skills are being practiced: speaking, listening, reading, understanding and writing (with the emphasis on the two first mentioned.) Since grammatical structures are to be practiced as well, the students will be given various grammatical exercises for work at home and in the class as well.

Students are provided by complete authorized instructional material in print form.

Students exercise reading, the emphasis being put on correct pronunciation and accent. Specific language functions (asking questions, finding information, giving advice and orders etc.) are dealt with in detail.

3. DOCUMENTATION

Kept electronic records of presence in lectures and exercises (students carry out records using student cards). There is a paper and electronic record database in Excel for all student. All written exams are being kept at the Chair of Foreign Languages.
